FOREWORD

This is the roadway of life. How we travel this road will determine the success or failure of our future lives. It leads to success and happiness, but to gain this, we must build our lives as the foundation of the road is built---strong, deep, able---able to bear the weight of our achievements along with our disappointments. In this road are many crooks and turns where one may wander and become a pebble by the wayside. We as seniors, must realize this; thus, direct our every thought and action toward building the lasting foundation.

The Editor

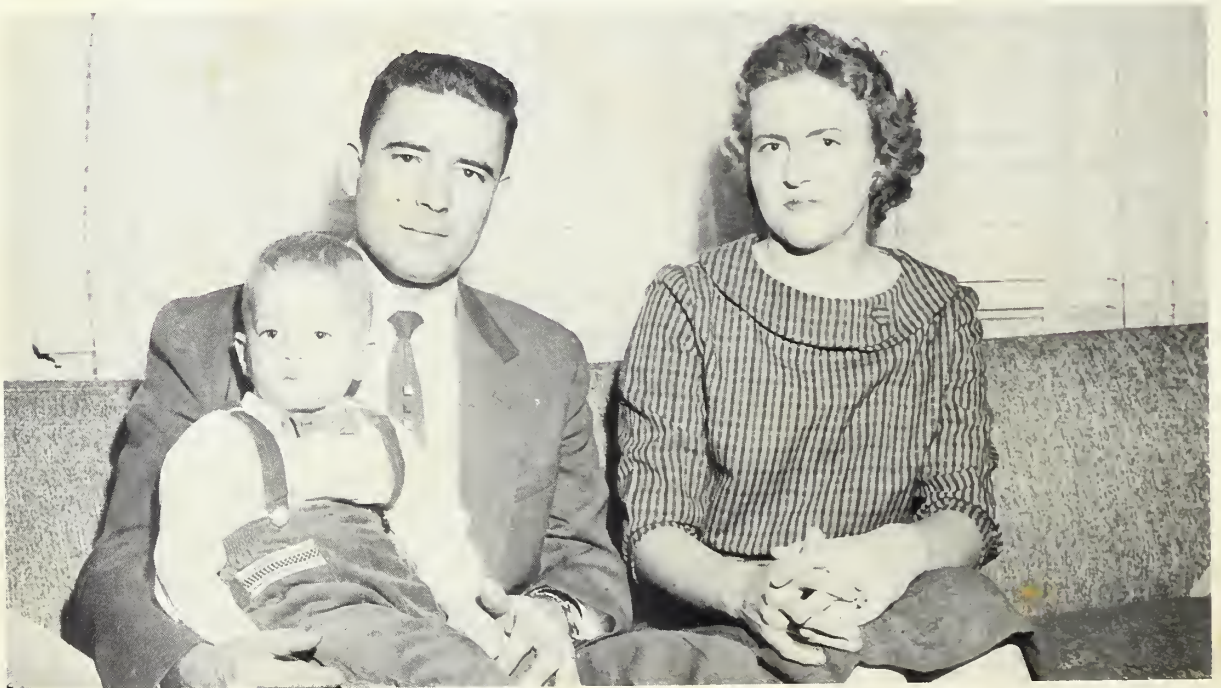

OUR DEDICATION TO YOU

With our most humble thanks and fondest memories we dedicate this edition of the Micro Black Widow to our principal, Mr. Alvin Narron, Jr. We sincerely appreciate the loving understanding and guidance which you have so graciously given to us throughout our years at Micro High School. We will always hold your friendship near to our hearts and forever strive to make you proud of the Senior Class of 1961.

To you, Mr. Narron, we proudly dedicate this, the 1961 edition of the BLACK WIDOW!

Mr. Narron shown above as we know him at school.

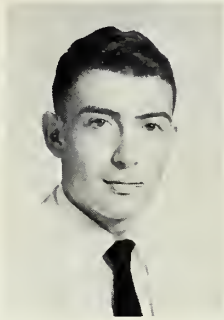

Below we see him relaxed at home with his wife, Ruby, and son, Lloyd.

To our school, Dear Micro High
When we must bid our last good-bye
We remember the times both good and bad
Our words are few and our hearts are sad.

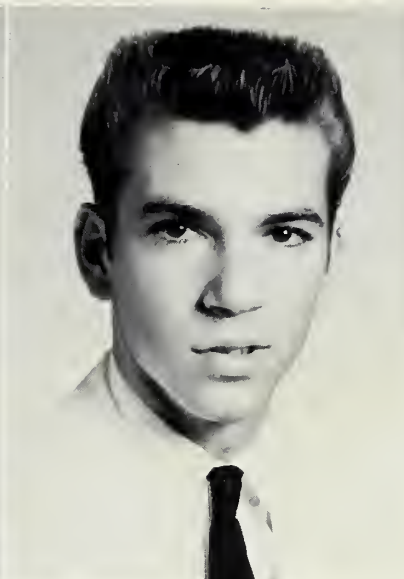

Knowing that too soon they will all be gone
And all we'll have are memories that linger on.
We look back through the years
Remembering the joy, vanishes our fears.

When we go out into life's tomorrow
Our thoughts shall be of success and not sorrow.
Through these twelve years in this wonderful school
We have learned to cherish the Golden Rule.

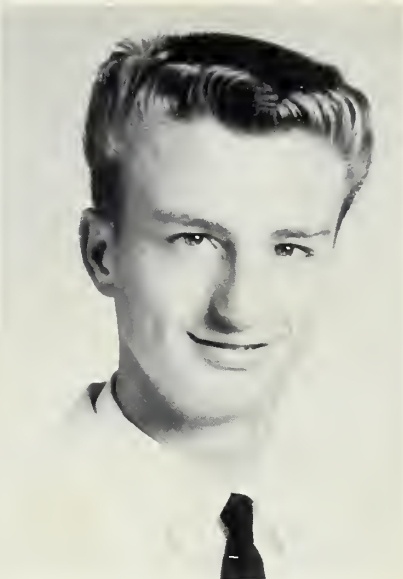

To all the teachers who did their best
To help us study and pass our tests
We want to show our appreciation
For helping us reach our goal - graduation.

IN MEMORY
OF
TWO WE LOVED

RONALD EDWARD HATCHER
AND
ROSE MARIE AYCOCK

RONNIE

IN MEMORY OF RONALD EDWARD HATCHER

After the 1961 BLACK WIDOW had gone to press, our hearts were made sad by the tragedy which took Ronnie from us.

We, as students, loved Ronnie as a fellow classmate, respected him as the class leader, and admired him for being the perfect example of youth in his school, his church, and community work, and as a friend.

Because of his dynamic personality, his intense interest in his class, he was chosen editor of our yearbook. Because of the many long hours he diligently and willingly gave after school and at night, our book is a success.

We will miss his big smile, his human warmth of understanding, his courage, his faith in mankind, but we will remember him for these attributes and try to be more like him.

ROSE

As an outstanding member of the freshman class, Rose's prospects for becoming a leader were evident.

We'll miss her but will remember her for all the good and honorable things for which she stood.
